Few industries today are as hot as high tech—and few are as dynamic and competitive. The pace of technology growth is off the charts, and billions in new sales are projected across a number of segments within the coming years. This is fabulous news for businesses and consumers across the globe, as we collectively gain new products that fuel everything from our productivity to our entertainment. But the resulting recruiting challenges are only beginning. With so many critical positions to fill, ranging from engineering to management to HTML5 coding to entrepreneurial leadership, the skill requirements are incredibly diverse and extremely specialized. You have to find the right talent with the right training fast enough to beat the competition.

Now is the time for your company to leverage a best-of-breed recruiting platform. One that demonstrates revolutionary social media functionality to speak to candidates on their own turf. One that meets candidates' expectations regarding real-time updates and mobility, and one that meets your expectations for time-saving features, like calendar integration. Jobvite Hire can help. Our cutting-edge Applicant Tracking System (ATS) offers the most robust social recruiting platform available, along with the ease of use and efficiency you need to get your job done better and faster—so your company can continue to innovate at top speed.

Highlights

Broader reach and better candidate experience.

In your extremely competitive market, finding skilled candidates is a tough job that frequently spans international borders. That's why Jobvite Hire makes it easier for professionals to find and apply for your available positions. Social media integration and automated broadcasts ensure that requisitions are posted on the platforms your prospects use every day, no matter where they reside. In fact, Jobvite was the first company to offer the "Apply with LinkedIn" feature—and is currently the only company that still allows candidates to also submit a resume. With just a few clicks, candidates upload their resumes or profiles, and Jobvite parses the data automatically. Submit the application, and that's it. And Jobvite extends this instinctively natural user experience with touch screen optimization for mobile devices. Candidates can even receive real-time updates on application status.

Intuitive interface.

You're working hard enough to keep pace with industry changes and demands—so we've employed innovative navigation and common-sense displays to help you quickly review what matters about an applicant and hide what doesn't. With a few simple clicks, you can view an open requisition to see its details, schedule an entire on-site interview, or take a look at active candidates who have applied for a position. Filter the results to see who has applied since the last time you checked. If you spot a candidate that interests you, click on a social profile or link to see more information.

Centralized management.

From dynamic dashboards and scheduling assistants to real-time candidate activity feeds with social media integration, Jobvite Hire gives you all the data you need, all within a single system.

Integrated application views.

We deliver all relevant data—including resumes and LinkedIn profiles—right to you, inside Jobvite, in real time. There's no need to download documents or launch other programs. Unlike outdated Applicant Tracking Systems, we don't use add-on forms and external hyperlinks. We think intelligently, like you do, ensuring that all important information is dynamic, accessible, and continuously updated.

Jobvite Hire Features

Applicant Tracking Accelerate workflows and adopt technology to increase efficiency, effectiveness and employee satisfaction.	• Configure workflows and forms to fit your business processes • Prepare and route requisition and offer approvals by email • Share information and activities with hiring managers— via email and hiring manager self-service • Leverage a robust, searchable candidate database with data import and parsing • View a dynamic LinkedIn profile in the candidate detail page • Check activity feeds for tracking history
Email and Productivity Make your recruiting team more efficient and productive on the tools you use daily.	• Automatically receive recruiting information in email or on mobile devices • Automatically track replies to notes and messages in Jobvite, and associate them with the appropriate candidates, contacts or requisitions • Boost efficiency when you assign tasks to yourself or others and track within the application
